Academic Advising

Website: chhs.gmu.edu/nfs/graduate/certificate-nutrition.cfm

This graduate certificate prepares students to apply nutrition principles and the latest scientific evidence and methods of nutrition to health practice and research among different populations. The certificate emphasizes understanding the role of nutrition in population health and well-being and the development of skills required in the practice, analysis, and interpretation of nutrition-related information and data among individuals and populations. Students will acquire competencies in the following areas:

- public health nutrition framework
- assessment and monitoring
- research design and methodology
- planning and evaluation of nutrition programs

This graduate certificate may be pursued on a part-time or full-time basis.

This certificate qualifies for Title IV Federal Financial Aid. For more information about program graduation rates, the median debt of students who completed the program, and other important information, please visit our disclosure information page (https://irr2.gmu.edu/gedt/Nutrition_CERG/Gedt.html).
