This masters, consisting of four concentrations, meets the growing need for professionals and academics in the areas of recreation administration, sport and leisure studies, sport management, and individualized study in sport, recreation, and tourism. This degree prepares students as professionals who will more adequately serve the industry and their communities, and students who wish to pursue advanced study through doctoral programs in these disciplinary areas, leading to employment (and contributions) in academe. This program offers the traditional research masters’ thesis option and the option of an applied research project linked to a professional setting or internship.

Graduate certificates in Sport Coaching and International Sport Management may be taken in conjunction with the MS SRST degree or as stand alone options.

Accelerated Master’s

Bachelor's Degree (any)/Sport and Recreation Studies, Accelerated MS

Overview

Qualified Mason undergraduates may be admitted to a bachelor’s/accelerated master’s program and obtain a BA or BS in any degree area and a Sport and Recreation Studies, MS. See AP.6.7 Bachelor’s/Accelerated Master’s Degree for policies related to this option.

Application Requirements

Applicants to all graduate programs at George Mason University must meet the admission standards and application requirements for graduate study as specified in Graduate Admissions Policies. Additionally, applicants must have an overall GPA of at least 3.00. See the Accelerated Master’s Admissions (https://www2.gmu.edu/admissions-aid/how-apply/accelerated-masters) webpage to apply.

Accelerated Option Requirements

During their senior year, students complete three to six graduate credits in consultation with the academic program coordinator that apply to both the bachelor’s and master’s degrees. These courses are considered advanced standing for the master’s. A minimum grade of B must be earned to be eligible to count as advanced standing. While still in undergraduate status, students may take up to six graduate credits that are reserve graduate credit and therefore, are applicable to the master’s but do not count toward the undergraduate degree. Early in their final undergraduate semester, students must submit the Bachelor’s/Accelerated Master’s Transition Form to the CEHD Admissions Office and specify which courses are to be designated as advanced standing and reserve graduate credit.
